Press Brake

Accident Explained:

Causes, Solutions, Etc

www.adhmt.com

Understanding Press Brake Operations

What is a Press Brake?

A vital metal forming device used in manufacturing for bending metal sheets.

Operation Complexity:

Involves intricate procedures and technical requirements, necessitating skilled operators.

Common Tasks and Procedures

01 Workpiece Preparation: Ensuring size and flatness.

02 Parameter Setting: Adjusting for bending angle, radius, and pressure.

03 Die Replacement: Changing tools for different shapes and sizes.

04 Safety Checks: Ensuring all safety devices function properly.

05 Operation and Control: Bending metal to required angles.

06

Unloading and Quality Check: Removing finished products and ensuringspecifications are met.

Dangers of Press Brakes

Strong Power:
Risk of operator being clamped or squeezed.

Sharp Metal Edges:
Potential for cuts, stabbings, and burns.

Muscle Strains:
From handling heavy materials.

Automatic Operation Risks:
Possibility of crush and amputation injuries.

Noise and Vibration:
Long-term health impacts.

Causes of Accidents

Human Error:

Lack of training, fatigue, distraction, unpredictable behavior.

Machine Failure:

Equipment malfunctions, wear and aging.

Improper Settings and Maintenance:

Incorrect machine settings and inadequate maintenance.

Impact of Accidents

Physical Injuries	Financial Implications	Psychological Effects
Ranging from minor to severe, including amputation or death.	Medical fees, compensation, and repair costs.	Stress disorders and negative impacts on life and work.

Safety Measures

01

Training and Certification

Essential for all operators.

02

Regular Maintenance

Checking equipment parts and safety devices.

03

Safety Gear

Mandatory use of protective equipment.

04

Safety Protocols

Standard procedures and safety checks.

05

Technological Innovations

Advancements in safety monitoring and equipment.

Conclusion

Preventive Action

Invest in advanced equipment, regular maintenance, and comprehensive training.

Creating a Safe Environment

Responsibility of operators and business owners to minimize accident rates